We are all settling into the new academic year famously and are truly appreciative of all the support that is coming from our wonderful families.

We held introductory assemblies for each year group and Q&A sessions for all parents throughout last week - so we hope to have answered all your questions successfully and shared all relevant information. All parents should now have also received a Parent Handbook full of policies; procedures; routines and useful information.

Our Induction week for staff went extremely well and we were delighted, as a Google school, to have had external providers coming into the school to train all our teachers and thereby enable them to be certified as Google Educators. We now have provision for all of Key Stages 2 - 5 to use Chromebooks.

From years 3-13 all students will be using them in their lessons enabling a truly 21st century education developing our critical thinkers and equipping them for the future.

We are also very mindful of the need to keep a balanced education which incorporates proficiency in all four skill areas of listening; speaking; reading and writing - be it handwriting or using a keyboard.

We will hold the second in a series of our Parents in Partnership sessions this week when all parents will have the opportunity to Meet the Leadership Teams.
